Why should we tackle workplace bullying and incivility? - Isn’t it just part of the landscape of life?

• “The true measure of any society can be found in how it treats its most vulnerable members.” Mahatma Gandhi

At some point, we are all vulnerable, in various ways. Perhaps the true measure of our MSU society is in how we treat one another.

Anti-Discrimination Policy (ADP)

“...the University community holds itself to certain standards of conduct more stringent than those mandated by law. Thus, even if not illegal, acts are prohibited under this policy if they:

- Discriminate against [or harass] any University community member(s) through inappropriate limitation of employment opportunity, ... or participation in education, athletic, social, cultural, or other University activities
- on the basis of age, color, gender, gender identity, disability status, height, marital status, national origin, political persuasion, race, religion, sexual orientation, veteran status, or weight;”
Sample University definitions

• “...has no legitimate purpose, ought to be known to be unwelcome, and creates a hostile, intimidating, humiliating or toxic environment. (University of New Brunswick, Canada)

• “…repeated mistreatment by words or actions that are intended to shame, embarrass, humiliate, degrade, demean, intimidate, and/or threaten an individual or group.” (Colorado State University)

• “…unwelcome behavior pervasive or severe to the extent that it makes the conditions for work inhospitable and impairs another person’s ability to carry out his/her responsibilities to the university…” (University of Wisconsin-Madison)
Next steps...

• Where can we go from here?
  • To a conceptually-based, simply worded, tangible definition
    • Informs behavior at every level
    • Widely shared, taught and known by the community
  • To a clear policy and
  • A scaffolded, defined and well-known procedure
    • To educate and hold accountable
    • To address concerns pro-actively
    • To provide a credible, transparent and consistent procedure that supports all parties equitably
